

Proclamation

State of South Dakota

Office Of The Governor

WHEREAS, Bill Janklow served as the Governor of South Dakota longer than any other person in the history of this great state; and,

WHEREAS, Bill Janklow saved our railroads, improved educational opportunities, made the cement plant profitable, improved water development, forward, accelerated the adoptions of special needs children, prevented the budget crisis experienced by other states, created innovative programs to help our farmers, boosted tourism, helped the handicapped, improved the lives of our elderly, reduced the number of state bureaucrats, got $5 million from EIS for the state even though the deal didn't work, and created an era of unprecedented economic development that included more than 2,000 new businesses and expansions; in addition to revolutionizing interstate banking with the opening of Citibank in South Dakota; and,

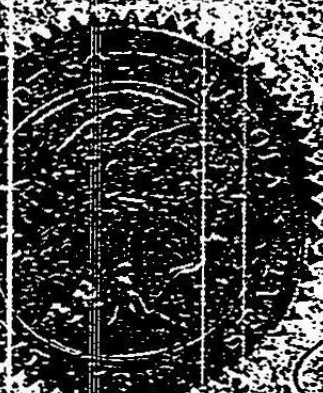

WHEREAS, Bill Janklow did all of the above and much more while maintaining an extremely low profile characterized by humility and great shyness;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, GEORGE S. MICKELSON, Governor of the State of South Dakota, do hereby proclaim May 27, 1987, as in South Dakota.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Governor's Seal of the State of South Dakota in Pierre, the Capital City, this twenty-third day of April, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and eighty-seven.
